NARAL Pro-Choice America believes every woman has the right to make personal decisions regarding the full range of reproductive choices, including preventing unintended pregnancy, bearing healthy children, and choosing legal abortion.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD ON CHOICE 109th CONGRESS, 1st SESSION

As we publish the 2005 Congressional Record on Choice, which documents each key choice-related vote taken during the past year, a woman's right to choose hangs in the balance.

For more than four years, President Bush, with help from his anti-choice allies in Congress, has marched step by step toward dismantling Roe v. Wade. The president signed the first federal law in history criminalizing abortion, granted embryos and fetuses unprecedented legal status, and installed dozens of anti-choice judges on the federal bench. But the first year of his second term presented President Bush with an even greater opportunity to influence reproductive freedom long after he leaves the Oval Office: two Supreme Court vacancies – including a swing seat that for years has proved instrumental in protecting the fundamental freedoms articulated in Roe.

In July, Justice Sandra Day O'Connor – a moderate voice of reason on the Court who provided the critical swing vote in 5-4 decisions upholding the freedom of choice – announced her decision to retire. In September, Chief Justice William Rehnquist passed away. The anti-choice movement already controls the White House and Congress, and President Bush seized these openings to extend anti-choice dominance to the third, remaining branch of government.

His first nominee, John Roberts, has a clear record as a legal activist who advocated the overturn of Roe. Unfortunately, the Senate confirmed Roberts to the post of Chief Justice, 78-22. Soon thereafter, President Bush nominated White House Counsel Harriet Miers, who proved insufficiently doctrinaire for the president's anti-choice political base and withdrew her name from consideration. The president's final Supreme Court nominee of 2005, Samuel Alito, has said that "the Constitution does not protect a right to an abortion" and, as a lawyer in the Reagan administration, was an architect of the legal strategy to undermine and eventually overturn Roe. If the Senate confirms Alito, he will take the swing O'Connor seat, and key pillars of Roe – such as that which protects a woman's health – soon could fall.

In addition to packing the courts, President Bush and his administration continued to dismantle reproductive freedom through other means:

- The Bush Justice Department asked the Supreme Court to consider the Federal Abortion Ban, which the president signed into law in 2003. In three separate cases, federal courts have ruled that the law – which criminalizes abortion as early as the 12th week of pregnancy and has no exception to protect women's health – is unconstitutional and unenforceable.
- The Bush Food and Drug Administration continued to block women's over-the-counter access to emergency contraception, despite the overwhelming recommendation of its scientific advisory panels, professional staff, and virtually every member of the respected medical establishment. Confirming many pro-choice Americans' fears, a Government Accountability Office report found that senior FDA officials did not follow normal procedures in considering the move. Instead, anti-choice politics trumped sound science.

Meanwhile, in the first session of the 109th Congress, anti-choice lawmakers took a number of actions to further erode a woman's right to choose:

- The House passed the Child Interstate Abortion Notification Act (CIANA), a bill that forces young women seeking abortion care, and their doctors, to navigate a complex, multi-pronged parental-notification system. While we all want teens to talk with their parents if faced with an unintended pregnancy, sometimes this simply isn't possible. CIANA does nothing to foster family communication, but it would impose a criminal penalty on a caring adult – including a grandparent, adult sibling, or clergy member – who accompanies a young woman to an out-of-state doctor for abortion services.
- As part of a mammoth spending bill, Congress extended the Federal Refusal Clause for another year. First passed in 2004, this back-door gag rule allows health-care companies to exempt themselves from any federal, state, or local law that assures women have access to abortion services – or even a referral to another doctor.
- In addition to confirming John Roberts as Chief Justice of the United States, the Senate also confirmed three anti-choice jurists – all of whom it rejected in 2003 – to lifetime appointments on federal appellate courts: Priscilla Owen, Janice Rogers Brown, and William Pryor.
- Congress passed bankruptcy legislation after rejecting a critical provision that would have held petrators of clinic violence responsible for their illegal actions by ensuring they do not discharge their fines and debts in bankruptcy court.

- In an especially troubling move, anti-choice House members broadened their attacks from legal abortion to birth control. They voted 223-205 to remove contraception from a list of services offered to poor women overseas to prevent obstetric fistula – a devastating injury that occurs when labor is prolonged for many hours, often to girls whose bodies are too undeveloped to deliver babies properly.
- Finally, an anti-choice-dominated Congress continued bans on abortion access for women who depend on the federal government for their health care: Medicaid and Medicare clients, U.S. servicewomen and military dependents, federal employees, residents of the District of Columbia, and women in federal prison.

Despite the onslaught of anti-choice activity, pro-choice lawmakers and family-planning supporters continued to put forth a positive, pro-choice agenda:

- As anti-choice lawmakers focused their efforts on restricting access to abortion care, Senate Minority Leader Harry Reid (D-NV), Rep. Louise Slaughter (D-NY), and other pro-family-planning lawmakers introduced legislation to expand access to preventive-health services that help reduce unintended pregnancy and thus, the need for abortion. Sen. Reid's bill is particularly notable because it represents the first time ever that any political party has included a reproductive-health bill among the party's official top legislative priorities.

- Sens. Hillary Rodham Clinton (D-NY) and Reid offered an amendment to invest $100 million in programs that prevent unintended pregnancies: contraceptive equity, family-planning services, teen-pregnancy prevention programs, and emergency contraception. Unfortunately, anti-choice lawmakers narrowly defeated this common-sense proposal, 47-53.
- Pro-choice Sens. Barbara Boxer (D-CA) and Olympia Snowe (R-ME) won Senate approval to repeal President Bush's global gag rule, which prohibits U.S. funding for any overseas health clinic unless it agrees not to use its own private, non-U.S. funds for abortion services, abortion-related advocacy, or abortion counseling or referrals. Unfortunately, the House failed to take similar action so the repeal did not become law.
- The Senate unanimously passed an amendment offered by pro-choice Sen. Frank Lautenberg (D-NJ) to ensure that federally funded "abstinence-only" programs are medically accurate. Unfortunately, anti-choice lawmakers later stripped the language.
- Reports of rogue pharmacists refusing to fill legal birth-control prescriptions prompted pro-choice lawmakers to introduce legislation in both the House and Senate to guarantee women's access to doctor-prescribed birth control at their local pharmacies.
- Lawmakers introduced separate pieces of legislation to establish the first-ever federally funded comprehensive sex-education program; provide women in the military better access to emergency contraception; and force the FDA to do its job and act on the languishing application to allow women access to emergency contraception without a prescription.

These pro-choice legislative actions reflect NARAL Pro-Choice America's renewed commitment to promoting common-sense prevention policies. At the beginning of 2005, NARAL Pro-Choice America challenged President Bush and anti-choice congressional leaders to set aside politics and instead work with us to find common ground through programs that reduce the number of unintended pregnancies and, therefore, the need for abortion. We will likely never agree on the question of legal abortion, but we can work together to help women and couples avoid unplanned pregnancy. Unfortunately, our call was met with silence, derision, and even more audacious attacks on choice.

But we are steadfast in our beliefs. The American majority is pro-choice: nearly two-thirds of the country does not want Roe v. Wade to be overturned, and even a majority of self-described anti-choice individuals support proactive measures that help women prevent unintended pregnancy. Unfortunately, the 109th Congress does not reflect the public's views: the House has only 141 fully pro-choice members, of 435, while fully pro-choice senators number only 33 out of 100. Therefore, the solution is starkly clear: in order to protect a woman's right to choose and enact positive proactive policies, we must elect more pro-choice lawmakers. As the 2006 midterm elections near, NARAL Pro-Choice America will actively work to translate America's political mainstream into a governing majority.

SENATE VOTES

1. Clinic Violence. Bankruptcy Reform Act of 2005, S.256. Schumer (D-NY) amendment to prevent those who commit acts of clinic violence from using bankruptcy proceedings to discharge the debts incurred as a result of their illegal activities. Rejected 46-53; a pro-choice vote (+) was in support of the amendment (3/8/2005).

2. Invest in Prevention Programs; Reduce Unintended Pregnancies. FY'06 Budget Resolution, S. Con. Res. 18. Clinton (D-NY) and Reid (D-NV) amendment to invest $100 million in contraceptive equity, family planning, teen-pregnancy prevention programs and emergency contraception-education programs. Rejected 47-53; a pro-choice vote (+) was in support of the amendment (3/17/2005).

3. Global Gag Rule. FY'06/07 Foreign Relations Authorization Act, S.600. Boxer (D-CA) amendment to repeal the Bush administration's global gag rule, which denies U.S. assistance to any overseas health clinic that uses its own private funds to provide or counsel about abortion care, or take a public pro-choice position. Specifically, the Boxer amendment states that clinics overseas: (1) cannot be denied funding based on the legal medical services they provide, including counseling and referral services; and (2) as a condition of eligibility for U.S. development assistance, cannot be forced to sacrifice their right to free speech and assembly. Passed 52-46; a pro-choice vote (+) was in support of the amendment (4/5/2005).

4. Owen Nomination. Vote to confirm anti-choice nominee Priscilla Owen to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. Passed 55-43; a pro-choice vote (+) was against the nomination (5/25/05).

5. Brown Nomination. Vote to confirm anti-choice nominee Janice Rogers Brown to the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals. Passed 56-43; a pro-choice vote (+) was against the nomination (6/8/05).

6. Pryor Nomination. Vote to confirm anti-choice nominee William Pryor to the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals. Passed 53-45; a pro-choice vote (+) was against the nomination (6/9/05).

7. Roberts Nomination. Vote to confirm anti-choice nominee John Roberts to the post of Chief Justice of the United States. Passed 78-22; a pro-choice vote (+) was against the nomination (9/29/05).

HOUSE VOTES

1. Child Interstate Abortion Notification Act, H.R.748. Scott (D-VA) amendment to exempt from criminal prosecution doctors, other medical professionals, and taxicab drivers. Rejected 179-245; a pro-choice vote (+) was in support of the amendment (4/27/05).

2. Child Interstate Abortion Notification Act, H.R.748. Jackson Lee (D-TX) amendment to exempt from criminal prosecution grandparents, adult siblings, and religious counselors. Rejected 177-252; a pro-choice vote (+) was in support of the amendment (4/27/05).

3. Child Interstate Abortion Notification Act, H.R.748. Final passage. Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL) bill to impose a new, impossibly complex, national patchwork of parental-notice mandates on doctors and young women – even in states that have decided not to pass such laws. The bill also subjects to criminal prosecution anyone other than a parent – including a grandparent, adult sibling, or religious counselor – who accompanies a minor across state lines for an abortion if her home state parental-involvement mandate has not been met. Passed 270-157; a pro-choice vote (+) was against final passage (4/27/05).

4. Women in the Military. FY'06 National Defense Authorization Act, H.R.1815. Davis (D-CA) amendment to repeal current law prohibiting military personnel and their dependents from obtaining privately funded abortion services at overseas military hospitals. Rejected 194-233; a pro-choice vote (+) was in support of the amendment (5/25/05).

5. Birth Control. FY'06 Foreign Relations Authorization Act, H.R.2601. Smith (R-NJ) amendment to cut contraception from the list of services offered to poor women overseas in order to prevent obstetric fistula – a devastating injury that occurs when labor is prolonged for many hours, often to girls whose bodies are too undeveloped to deliver babies properly. Passed 223-205; a pro-choice vote (+) was against the amendment (7/19/05).
